The Romanian National Cybersecurity Directorate (NCSD) and Decalex are launching a data protection guide dedicated to companies

Bucharest, October 11, 2022

The National Cybersecurity Directorate (NCSD), alongside Decalex, a company specialised in GDPR consulting and data security, announces the launch of a GDPR Guide, dedicated to medium and large Romanian organisations, as they are the most exposed to security risks.

The guide was designed to provide real, simple and understandable support for companies that want to correctly implement GDPR provisions at the level of internal operations and flows, as well as in relations with third parties, regardless of who they are: business partners, shareholders, customers, employees.

“We wanted the material to contain simple and clear explanations so that it could be relatively easily understood and applied by the employees responsible for the application of GDPR rules and by the decision makers”, declared Dan Cîmpean, the Director of NCSD.

The intention is to provide companies, experts and any employee with basic information on the GDPR rules that should be implemented, and then monitored within the company, so as to avoid the risk of non-compliance and, respectively, fines and sanctions in case of inaccuracies found by the control authorities.

“We have specified the basic rules a company must comply with, and in the last few months, before offering it to the general public, we have made sure that we have foreseen absolutely everything necessary to follow minimum compliance rules in this field.”, declared Cristian Deca, co-founder of Decalex.

“At the base of the creation of the guide is the experience of the Decalex team, which audited and implemented the provisions of Regulation 679/2016 (GDPR) in over 500 companies in the country and abroad,” he added.

The first GDPR Guide of this type in Romania is the result of the collaboration between the Decalex team and the cybersecurity experts of NCSD, whose technical expertise is a good starting basis in any project regarding the compliance of Romanian companies with the GDPR rules of the Romanian and European legislation.

All companies and organisations that process personal data have the obligation to implement compliance measures and also to periodically check through an annual re-assessment process whether the measures applied are still necessary, whether they require improvement, or whether the compliance documentation needs to be updated. Depending on the degree of complexity of data processing, these annual compliance programmes involve more or fewer actions. The GDPR guide explains these rules step by step, with a focus on their implementation and monitoring, so that, at the end of each year, the company/organisation is as compliant as possible with the rules in force.
